

CONSTELLATION FUND

Constellation Fund Outcomes Report

Karisa Johnson, Research Associate

May 2024

SUMMARY

The May 2024 grant round increased Constellation’s lifetime funding from $16,207,730 to $18,067,730. With nearly 2 million dollars in grants this round, Constellation’s contributions are expected to create a total of $6,811,100 of impact and positively affect 14,308 people (table 1).

Table 1. Constellation Fund's Impact - May 2024

Grant Round	Total Grant $	Total Impact $	Unique Individuals Impacted

IMPACT

Constellation’s total impact (calculated by multiplying BCRs by grant size) in May 2024 is lower than the last several rounds (table 2). This is due to ongoing changes within Constellation’s portfolio as well as organizational restructure. Impact is expected to increase as the new changes take place. This grant cycle, the highest returns are from education organizations accounting for nearly 50% of the impact.

Constellation’s May 2024 Grantees are each expected to produce, on average, $7.4 million of benefits over the next year (table 3). Constellation’s $1.86 million in grants will fund approximately 6% of the benefits produced by each grantee in this round.

Table 3. The Average Portion of Benefits That are Funded Through Constellation's Grants

Grant Round	Average Impact Per Grantee	Average Impact Due to CF Funding (Per Grantee)	Average % of Grantee Impact Due to CF Funding
May 2024	$7,403,651	$454,073	6%

Constellation’s May 2024 grantees produce a variety of beneficial services and outcomes for people living in poverty in the Twin Cities. These benefits include improved health, reduced recidivism, educational attainment, and much more. The outcome with the highest dollar benefit from the May 2024 grantees is “Increased Academic Achievement” providing over $15 million of benefit to the community.

PARTICIPANTS

There are two types of benefits calculated by the Metrics and Evaluation team: the final benefits and the direct benefits. The direct benefits can be thought of as the immediate impact of the intervention. The final benefit is the final outcome of the intervention and is monetized. For example, an organization may provide health services such as an antidepressant medication, reducing depression and allowing an individual to continue working which prevents the loss of earnings. The direct benefit is reduced depression due to medication, while the final benefit is avoided loss of earnings. So while the organization is directly providing health services, the final outcome and the dollar amount the evaluation calculates is the avoided loss of earnings. Therefore, most individuals received both a direct outcome and a final outcome per each service provided by a Constellation funded organization and are represented multiple times in the counts in table 5.

Since we know approximately 14,000 unique people were served this past year by the May 2024 grantees, totals in Table 6 double count (or more) the same individuals. Duplications in participant numbers are due to the fact that participants may have received multiple services from an organization or used the same service several times. The total in Table 6 can be better understood as the count of times someone was served.
